MOSCOW, July 3.—Premier Josef Stalin, who has assumed supreme direction of the Red armies, admitted major Soviet reverses in the Russo-German war today but assured his people that the Reich will be defeated.

At the same time he warned the struggle is a matter of "life and death" for the U. S. S. R. and called upon Russians to "understand the full gravity of the danger threatening the country."

In a nationwide radio broadcast to the Russian people Stalin stated the Germans had occupied Lithuania, the greater part of Latvia, the western part of White Russia and part of the western Ukraine.

"In spite of the heroic resistance of our army," he said, "in spite of destruction, the enemy's best forces, he has continued to advance."

"But Hitler's army will be beaten like those of Napoleon and the Kaiser."Speaking nervously and haltingly, the Red dictator declared:

State Law—Traffic Will
Be Unusually HeavyCelebrations of more than ordinary importance will mark the observance of the Fourth here tomorrow, and patriotism will manifest itself in something more than shooting off fireworks. Three observances are planned in widely scattered communities.
At Princeton the 100th anniversary of the founding of that village will be marked with a program which will start at 10 o'clock in the morning, and continue throughout the day. Rev. Charles Z. Bell of Ellwood City will speak at the morning program, while Judges Charles Matthews, Jr., will be the speaker during the afternoon. The program opening at 1:30 o'clock. A festival during the evening will conclude the day's activities.

At New Bedford, dedication of a memorial to veterans of the World War will take place, starting at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The speaker of the day will be Guy J. Wadlinger.

Bessemer is also planning a celebration which will last throughout the day. The morning program will be featured by a parade at 10 o'clock. In the afternoon, the principal event will be a baseball game between Bessemer and Ellwood City, with band music and other sports events.

The program will conclude with a dance in the high school gymnasium at 9 o'clock, with a fireworks display at 10:30 o'clock.

Quiet Day Here
Folks not interested in the above activities can either spend the day sitting quietly on their front porches or by visiting Cascade Park or some other picnic spot; playing golf at one of the three fine golf courses of the city; or swimming in any of the popular pools of the district. Picnicking will undoubtedly attract the most of the residents of the community.

Unless it is absolutely necessary, travel should be restricted to a minimum as roads throughout the district will be crowded with motorists.

Fireworks are absolutely taboo, the state of Pennsylvania having outlawed their sale, and there is also a city ordinance against shooting them off. The kiddies will thus have to restrict their energies to eating hot dogs, drinking pop or other ice cold drinks, and amusements of a harmless nature.

Taking everything as a whole, the celebrations in the county should be the safest and sanest in years, according to the programs indicated, and Lawrence county folks can keep last year's record intact, when not a single fatality was reported, by just being as careful as possible.

BERLIN, July 3.—With a million of Soviet Russia's best troops reported knocked out of action in the central sector, Nazi Germany threw her campaign against the Ukraine into high gear today as German and Rumanian forces swept across the Pruth river into Russian-held Bessarabia.

Small units had made similar crossings in the past but there was no concerted movements toward the east on the Bessarabian frontier until today.

Few details were given. A brief official communiqué merely said that German and Rumanian troops had crossed the river.

The communiqué said:
"German and Rumanian formations from northern Moldavia crossed the Pruth river and are advancing toward the Dniester."

The Soviets hitherto endeavored to halt the German advance on their borders by attacks on resist-

Attack Yesterday

(BULLETIN)

LONDON, July 2.—British authorities revealed today that one American airman is missing as a result of yesterday's action, in which the American Eagle squadron of the R. A. F. brought down three German planes in a sweep of German-occupied France.

The missing man's name was given as Pilot-Officer William Isaac Hall. His address was not learned immediately.

The Eagle squadron bagged the three Nazi planes while participating in their first major attack on occupied France—a raid that altogether resulted in destruction of at least 17 German planes.

Two of the German craft were shot down by two young American pilot officers while the third was destroyed by the English leader of the squadron.

An air ministry account said the action began when British bombers dropped their missiles on an objective and about 60 German Messerschmitt-109s sought to engage the protecting fighters.

Running air combats followed until the bombers completed their mission and regained the French coast. After the squadron leader accounted for one Messerschmitt, another American pilot intercepted a German plane and sent it crashing to earth with four machine gun bursts. A little later the youngest member of the squadron sent the third German diving to earth.

New Castle's National Youth Administration Work Experience Center will be enlarged immediately, it was announced today by the Harrisburg office of the NYA. George Keats, supervisor of the local center, stated that two additional dormitories would be built and a new shop building erected.

The dormitories will accommodate approximately 75 additional boys.

The expansion of the New Castle center comes partially as the result of the city of Harrisburg failing to secure an NYA center, according to Isaac C. Sutton, state NYA administrator. He said "for months the federal agency has endeavored to establish a resident center for boys in Harrisburg without success. As a result the center will be moved to Williamsport and the machine shop to York."

The shop to be built here will be equipped with welding, radio and sheet metal equipment. Plans have already been received for the buildings and construction is expected to start shortly.

The girl's father, working in Tionesta, was unaware of the tragedy until late last night.

MOSCOW, July 3.—Encouraged by a frank and fervent appeal by Premier Josef Stalin to halt the Nazi "monster" at all costs, Soviet forces on the western front today succeeded in stemming a series of gigantic German offensives at various points, a new official communiqué announced.

While all Russia responded to Stalin's declaration that the struggle is a matter of "life and death" and that the Soviet Union is seriously endangered, the communiqué asserted that the Germans are being held frozen in their tracks at the Beresina river, in the Luck sector and near Tarnopol—a gateway to the Ukraine.

To Meet Defeat

It was at the Beresina that Napoleon lost 20,000 men on his retreat from Moscow. Hitler, Stalin said in a nationwide broadcast to the Russian people, will eventually suffer a similar defeat.

The communiqué said:
"In the Borisov sector, advanced German units repeatedly attempted to cross the Beresina. Soviet troops frustrated the attempts everywhere."

In the Luck sector, Soviet troops stemmed an advance by large mechanized units of the enemy.

"Near Shepetovka, a German mobile column attempted to penetrate in a southerly direction toward Tarnopol (Russian Poland). Soviet troops fiercely attacked this column and stemmed it."

In his broadcast, Stalin freely admitted that the Germans had occupied Lithuania, the greater part of Latvia, the western part of White Russia and part of the western Ukraine.

State Police

Rodeo Plan Is Given Approval

New Castle will see a state police rodeo on Saturday, September 6, at the New Castle fair grounds. Definitely, this was made certain Wednesday afternoon, July 2, when Major Thomas Martin of Hershey, Pa., Jacob O. Mark of Greensburg and Lieutenant A. L. Gray inspected the fair grounds and pronounced it an ideal site for a rodeo.

For years New Castle wanted to get one of the state police rodeos here. There are few shows in the entire country that compare with it. It is a combination of a Pendleton roundup, a circus, and a metropolitan horse show. Sixty or more daring riders mounted on spirited horses, trained to the minute, present a show that carries a thrill with every minute.

A committee is being formed to handle the local arrangements, and on September 6, the fair grounds will see one of the most spectacular shows it has ever had.

Tax Payments Here
Far Ahead Of 1940
Says City Treasurer

Fatter pay envelopes—and more of them—today are reflecting themselves in an impressive black and white way in the scores of tax books in the office of City Treasurer C. C. McKibben.

One glance at some of the new figures there will persuade the average citizen that New Castle is doing "right well" in the busy rush which has engulfed America's industrial sections.

There are a lot of convincing things about the new figures, chief of which is this:

Collections Far Ahead

For the year to date, school tax collections in New Castle are ahead of last year's by a total of $118,746.50.

For 1941, so far, a total of $230,086.50 has been collected on school

City employees—the entire payroll—today received their regular June 16-30 pay checks two days ahead of schedule. It was advanced from July 5 because of the Fourth holiday. About 235 employees received a total pay of $13,840.

City taxes to date this year total close to $392,000.

ing Last NightMATHENY ELECTED
AS VICE PRESIDENT

J. Lepere Matthews, manager of the New Castle Water Co., last night was elected president of the Greater New Castle Association for 1941-42. He succeeds Norman E. Clark in that post.

Matthews' election came at a special meeting of the 36-member board of directors in The Castleton. The directors had been called to hear the report of a committee assigned weeks ago to nominate a new president after Robert H. Cunningham, who was elected earlier, had declined to serve.

In the annual election Matthews had been chosen second vice president, and in that capacity has been serving as association spokesman for several weeks. James L. Love, Shenango Pottery executive, is first vice president and he and Matthews together have been temporarily piloting GNCA affairs.

Last night's action puts Matthews at the helm of all GNCA activity.

To replace him as second vice president the directors chose Marshall G. Matheny, an attorney.

After electing Matthews and Matheny, the board last night gave brief consideration to important industrial matters now before the GNCA and instructed the transportation committee of the board to cooperate closely with the New Castle Motor club in boosting the erection of the new South Mercer street bridge over the Neshannock creek.

President Matthews said the board will meet again for its regular session Wednesday, July 9.

The new association head resides at 205 Euclid avenue.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Gen. George C. Marshall, U. S. Army chief of staff, today called for removal of legal restrictions to permit the army to serve anywhere in the world, and, at the same time, asked authority for an army of nearly 2,500,000 men.

Marshall urged the big standing army when he also asked for authority to keep "draftees," the National Guard and Reserve Corps officers in service beyond the one year period stipulated in the conscription law.

Build Up To 2,500,000

The army, including selectees, guardsmen and reserves, is now composed of about 1,400,000 men. If granted authority to keep the trainees in service beyond a year, the force would be built up to nearly 2,500,000 since 900,000 conscripts are to be called up in the next 12 months.

In a report to Secretary of War Stimson, Marshall declared "there are legal restrictions on the use of the armed forces which should be removed without delay. . . . When and where these forces are to serve are questions to be determined by their commander-in-chief and the Congress."

In asking authority to keep selectees in service, the army chief of staff pointed out that the scattering of selectees to Hawaii, the Aleutian Islands and elsewhere, and the use of these troops as "task forces" for possible special operations, makes it advisable not to muster these men out of the army at the end of their year's training period.

Grave Emergency
Marshall said that in the light of the present world military situation he believes that "our interests are imperiled and that a grave national emergency exists."

Differences of views regarding national policy, he said, should not be permitted to obscure the facts relating to the preparation of the armed forces for service.

The chief of staff declared that events of the past few days had given "even more forcible indications of the suddenness with which armed conflict can spread to areas hitherto considered free from attack."

It is here that legal limitations, acceptable at the time of their passage, now hamstring the development of the army into a force (Continued On Page Two)

FEW NAZI RAIDERS OVER ENGLAND

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
LONDON, July 3. — Another R. A. F. assault on Germany's Ruhr and Rhineland districts during the night was announced by British authorities today.

The German port of Bremen and the industrial cities of Cologne and Duisberg—which have been attacked repeatedly during the past three weeks—again were the main objectives of the R. A. F. assaults last night.

The attack on Bremen was described as particularly heavy. Four British bombers were lost.

Sections of northwestern Germany also were pounded by British bombers.

While these attacks were in progress a few German raiders appeared over Britain but the air ministry said no bombs were dropped.

(Editors' note: An official German announcement stated that some civilians were injured and some material damage inflicted by R. A. F. planes which raided several cities in western Germany and one northern German city. Two British planes were said to have been shot down by German night fighters.)

ance of the Soviet army now seems to be broken. The Soviets are retreating on the entire front.

Drive Proceeding
Elsewhere the German drive was reported proceeding according to schedule, while the "demoralized" red army retreated to the east under punishing lashings by land and air.

"Battles of annihilation" are in progress in various sectors, it was said. The Berlin newspaper Nachtausgabe, estimating that two-thirds of a Russian army of 4,500,000 had been massed on the western frontier, said that the Bialystok operations had completely accounted for one-ninth of the entire Soviet military organization.

This, it was pointed out, was achieved in 12 days of hostilities. German authorities said that Chancellor Hitler's war machine was rolling forward from offensive bases at Lemberg (Lwow), Minsk and Duenaburg.

Threat Is Growing
Although heavy Soviet forces still blocked the path, it was claimed the triple German threat against Leningrad, Russia's pre-revolutionary capital, Moscow, the red capital and the strategic city of Kiev in the rich Ukraine is growing daily.

The red air force was pictured as already powerless and decimated, and a similar fate was claimed for the Russian tank and troop formations.

German military dispatches from the main battlefields indicated that the red casualties already are so numerous they can be compared only with the mass slaughter figures of the bloodiest battles of the 1914-18 World War.

Staggering under the central German onslaught the German reports stated, the red armies' flanks are being pounded by the Hungarians in the Carpathians and the Finns on the north.

The Russian far northern port of Murmansk was declared to be seriously threatened as a battle raged in that sector, and German authorities said the only choice now left to the Russians is to "ward off the knockout blow as long as possible."

(Editor's Note: The German radio, in a broadcast picked up by CBS, said the German forces have won "practically all" the Baltic and Polish territory taken by the Soviets since 1939.)

Today's advances followed an official announcement that 160,000 Russian soldiers have been captured so far and that red army casualties are many times this figure.

More than 100,000 red troops were taken prisoner when a gigantic trap closed on the Bialystok sector, the announcement said, adding that "countless thousands" more were being added as the German drive progressed.

STALIN ADMITS SOME REVERSES BUT SEES VICTORY

man army have been beaten by our army, it means that Hitler's Fascist army can and will be defeated, just as the armies of Napoleon and Wilhelm were defeated.

"It, however, part of our territory has been occupied, it is due chiefly to the fact that the war began under conditions to the advantage of the Germans and to the disadvantage of the Soviets."

It might be asked, Stalin said, how it happened that Russia had concluded a pact of non-aggression with Germany just before the commencement of the European war.

Non-Aggression Pact
"The pact of non-aggression was a pact of peace with a neighboring power," Stalin asserted.

"We could not refuse such a pact even with such monsters as Hitler and (German Foreign Minister Joachim) Von Ribbentrop.

"Our cause is just and the enemy will be beaten."

Stalin said that Germanization and enslavement threaten the people of Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia, the Baltic states which Russia took over last summer. He declared the question now before the Soviet Union is whether it will be "enslaved by the Fascists."

"Everything must be subordinated to the interests of the front and to the task of crushing the enemy," he said.

"We must produce more rifles, guns, machine guns and shells and we must organize a ruthless struggle against panic-mongers, saboteurs and spies. We must organize all our means of transport."

"This war is a great war of the peoples of the Soviet Union against the forces of German Fascism. It is a war for the fatherland and also a war of liberation for all the peoples enslaved by Germany and for the liberation of the German people."

Soviet Russia, he said, has been helped by support from all Russians for the Red army and navy "for our victory."

As a belligerent, he said, Germany before the hostilities commenced already had mobilized 170 divisions and flung them against the borders of the U. S. S. R. where they stood ready and waiting the signal to launch the offensive.

Stalin appealed on the other hand to Soviet Russia to move troops to the frontier, Stalin said.

"A fact not without importance," he said, "is that Germany suddenly and with perfidy violated the pact of non-aggression. Regardless of this fact, she would be considered an aggressor by the world."

"As a result of the war imposed upon us, our country has entered a death struggle with her most ferocious and perfidious enemy—German Fascism."

"Our troops are fighting heroically against an enemy armed to the teeth and supplied abundantly with tanks and airplanes."

"The red army and navy are fighting selflessly for every inch of Soviet land. The main forces of the red army have been provided with thousands of tanks and our aircraft are entering into action. Resistance to the enemy is increasing as the entire Soviet rises in defense of the fatherland."

"It is necessary that Soviet men should understand the full gravity of the danger threatening the country. The enemy, cool and merciless, intends to seize our wheat and oil, restore the land-owners to tsarism and transform Russians into the slaves of German princes."

"Therefore this is a question of life and death for the Soviet state."

Newspapers have only themselves to blame. "The 'great' who have sinister power would still be unknown if the papers had kept still."

immediately available for whatever defensive measures may be necessary."

Marshall pointed out that while regular units of the army may be used as components for special "task forces" the National Guard organization must be utilized for the special supporting units such as anti-aircraft, heavy artillery, engineers etc. In addition, he said "plans for large units must cover every conceivable contingency, based on the means available."

Me Is Required
The general said that time is required to prepare such forces, and under present conditions, "we must submit these plans to the time consuming business of public investigation and debate—along with the advertisement of such plans to the world at large."

"I submit that the limitations referred to should be removed as quickly as possible if we are to have a fair opportunity to protect ourselves against the coldly calculated, secret and sudden action that might be directed against us."

The army chief of staff recalled that "American history includes some 'unfortunate incidents' which have resulted from quite similar legal difficulties, and which risked a battle or possibly a campaign." In the present crisis, "the risks of the nation are far more serious," he asserted.

Marshall again repeated his request for necessary legislation to "vitalize" the army leadership by removing from the active list officers who through "lack of qualities, vigor, and intelligent, aggressive leadership" slow down the development of the emergency army.

In the case of officers in the regular army, Marshall said the law governing their removal from the active list requires a procedure "so cumbersome as to make it totally ineffective during a national emergency."

Need Act Amendment

Washington, July 3.—The Selective Service Act would have to be amended to accomplish the proposal of Gen. George C. Marshall to remove restrictions which now bar the sending of United States troops beyond the western hemisphere.

The draft act contains this restriction on use of draftees: a similar restriction being placed in another act of National Guardsmen.

"Persons inducted into the land forces of the United States under this act shall not be employed beyond the limits of the western hemisphere, except in the territories and possessions of the United States, including the Philippine Islands."

Another provision says that whenever Congress determines that troops are needed, they may be kept in service "so long as such necessity exists."

The conscription act also says each inducted man shall be liable for 12 months service "except that whenever the Congress has declared the national interest is imperilled, such 12-month period may be extended by the president to such time as may be necessary in the interest of national defense."

Congressional legal experts say that a general declaration of a national emergency by Congress—strengthening President Roosevelt's declaration—would broaden authority of the army over reserve officers and men and remove other lesser restrictions.

MAKE IT LAST FOREVER!

LIBERTY IS THE blood stream of America. It is what makes this country young, virile, progressive. It builds in people initiative, ingenuity, resourcefulness. It is the strength of a nation at peace.

YET LIBERTY IS fragile as a flower. It needs constant cultivation, pampered care and the constant pruning of those few malcontents who consistently take liberties without taking Liberty to their hearts. So hard to get—so easy to lose! Retaining Liberty is worth the effort of all of us.

Birthday Of The Nation

IT IS now 165 years since the pen of Thomas Jefferson inscribed upon imperishable parchment the dream of a new nation of free people founded upon the vague theory of that which is now generally referred to as democracy. This was a bold and a brave venture, one to whose fulfillment those fifty-six men who gathered in Philadelphia pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor.

At the time there was ample reason to believe that they would fail, that their dream would collapse under the military pressure of a great empire or from weaknesses at home, where sentiment for freedom and a willingness to make heavy sacrifices in order that it might be attained were not unanimous.

But these men, with the spark of a bright idea glowing in their breasts and aware that they risked their all, went forward into the dark days of an uncertain future.

To these men and to others who have come after them, men whose blood has soaked the soil of a hundred fields of battle, who have endured whatever privations and sacrifices have been required during the last century and a half in order that freedom might live, Americans today owe their freedom to live as they please, to pursue in their several ways the objective of happiness, to worship in accordance with their wishes.

Americans of the past have been faithful to their trust. They have kept the fires of freedom burning. They have passed on to this generation both an inspiration and an obligation.

The task that was theirs in other crises is now that of Americans today. Never before, not even in the dark days of Valley Forge, has the cause of representative government been under such violent assault as it is today. Never before has there been so grave a danger that it will not endure as the hosts of tyranny, conquest and dictatorship sweep remorselessly forward.

But in contemplating the meaning of this Fourth of July it is with a feeling of reassurance that the people of America can consider the fact that their form of government has shown far more continuity and stability than that of most peoples.

Among the greatest governments of Europe, Britain alone, which stems from the Magna Charta, can boast of a longer tenure. German and Italian unification are recent by comparison. The French independence day post dated America's, and France has lost her freedom. The Russia of today is a mere baby. Of the ancient Asiatic countries Japan has been single in its stability and even the Japanese forms of today date back only eighty years.

America, born of revolution against foreign dominion, has always been anxiously aware of the possibility that an end might come to its democratic system. That end could be through foreign aggression, against which the nation is now preparing assiduously. But it is within the power of the American people themselves to sacrifice their system of government. Therein lies the greater danger.

The American system of government is now old in service. Habits of governmental thinking among Americans are well settled, or should be. These include the habit of caution in the face of attempts to disrupt the system through concentration of power. Americans have always been alert to that peril. They will continue to be in the measure that they value the Republic.

America, now notably grown up among all the world powers, needs only national unity of democratic thought to assure its continuing stability. And in the face of world stresses militating against democracy that unity should grow great and strong, as it was among the patriots who won independence for this people.

AMERICAN CARD PLAYERS

Of persons canvassed in a door-to-door in twenty-four American cities the Association of American Playing Card Manufacturers found that 83 per cent played cards. That is a surprisingly high percentage, even when it is taken into account that only urban populations were sampled, but more surprising still is the fact that no fewer than seventy-seven different card games figured in the enumeration. Not many people would have guessed that so many variations of the pastboard pastime were still practical in this country.

It will astonish many to hear that contract bridge is not—not yet, at least—America's most popular game; it ranks third, behind rummy and solitaire. That is perhaps to be explained by the fact that whereas bridge requires four players rummy can be played with two and solitaire with only one. It is not a question of sociability; there are solitaire players who, outside the hours they devote to that addiction, are the most companionable of men—and that is something that cannot always be said of the bridge fiend. What is beautiful about bridge to the bridge lover is that it so perfectly balances the elements of chance and skill, to the degree that when he wins he attributes it to skill alone, whereas when he loses it is the fault of nothing but bad luck or a poor partner. The devotee of solitaire, on the other hand, is a philosopher; he plays the game for its own sake the element of competition is lacking, no stake is concerned, and while it is agreeable to have the cards "come out," there is little disappointment and certainly no hard feelings if they don't.

Contract is only about fifteen years old as a national pastime, but it has become far more popular than the older forms of whist ever were. Forty-seven per cent of the women and 30 per cent of the men questioned were accustomed to play it. Pinochle is popular, too.

Here is another way to beat Hitler: Raise the tax on gasoline so that more money can be raised to pay for defense, then order gasolineless Sundays so the people can't buy as much gasoline.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

VANDALISM BY YOUTH COSTLY
While our fine young men in army training camps are getting ready to defend our country, some of their younger brothers are destroying "just for fun," one of the very rights these older brothers may have to give their lives to defend.

Destruction of private and public property by children is appalling. New York City spends annually about $161,000 dollars in repairs to damage school property chiefly windows broken, generally during summer, by school children throwing stones at them "for fun."

In the newspapers of Boston, Cleveland, Chicago and other large cities one reads of proportionately large public expenditures for like purposes. I have learned that often the greatest amount of vandalism to school buildings is in the best areas economically, frequently in suburban areas. Indeed, I saw many broken windows in a large and almost new junior high school building in a choice section of a suburb bordering a large city, far from any so-called "bad section" of the metropolis. Almost certainly the damage was done by boys living right in that fine area.

Vandalism Disgraceful
These are distressing facts. Vandalism by children from any kind of homes is disgraceful—most disgraceful when committed by children from homes of education and opportunity, of whom we have good reason to expect the very best sort of citizenship. Remember the parable of the talents?

Now children who deliberately break windows of a school building have done similar things at or near home. Perhaps as mere tots they have thrown stones at a street light, a sign or a passing car. Many children, alas, do such things right before the eyes of their parents without receiving effective punishment—since they must express themselves, and must not be spanked "less their personality be warped."

Is it not true that the fetish of self-expression, and fear of warping personality by punishment, are more rampant in so-called good communities than in less favored ones? Here may lie the secret of so much vandalism from children living in "good neighborhoods."

I believe that if all parents with average or above-average income education or family background were to train their children from early years in good citizenship in the home and immediate community, to the end that these children would not mar nor destroy property, but would exercise due regard for the rights of others, such vandalism soon would disappear.

The World and the Mud Puddles

BE IT REMEMBERED

Tomorrow is Independence Day. Tomorrow is the day we citizens of the United States celebrate an event that should be remembered as long as this Republic endures, and this is a particular time for our memories to be busy for all good Americans desire that this Republic should endure forever.

At this time not only the Declaration of Independence should be read, but the Gettysburg address of Abraham Lincoln should be read and should be committed to memory by the young people of this nation for it epitomizes the hopes of all citizens. It is very fitting that that address should be reprinted at this time.

"Four score and seven years ago, our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting-place for those who here

Happigrams

By ERICH BRANDEIS

You have probably all read the story of Judy Canova, the movie actress, who married Corporal James H. Ripley in Honolulu.

Immediately after the marriage, Ripley was arrested and put in the guard house for having gone A. W. O. L.

Judy hopped on the next clipper and returned to Hollywood to go back to work on her current picture.

When she was asked how it all happened she said:

"I got hit on the head with a soft moon."

Glory be to that soft moon that keeps on hitting people on the head in spite of bombs and blitz and Hitler!

It's such a wonderful hurt.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 7:32. Sun rises tomorrow 4:36.

Very often we read of young Democrats holding meetings. We never hear of any new Democrats holding meetings.

Be sure and display a flag tomorrow!

Of course, things might be worse in this country. Even so, that does not justify adopting the slogan, "Let bad enough alone."

'PLUMB RIDICULOUS'

If you think you are patient in misfortune, consider the case of the Texas man. All his life misfortune has dogged his steps, yet never once was he heard to complain.

I believe that if all parents with average or above-average income education or family background were to train their children from early years in good citizenship in the home and immediate community, to the end that these children would not mar nor destroy property, but would exercise due regard for the rights of others, such vandalism soon would disappear.

There are things that can be knocked out of some people quicker than hell can be knocked out of them. They tell of an employee who asked his boss for the afternoon off. The boss said, "I suppose your grandmother died?"

"No," answer the employee. "I want to go and see her make a parachute jump."

Good Taste

By E. E. Peasant Office

"I read in an etiquette book the other day that a gentleman is a man who never uses the word 'gentleman'." also another book that he is simply "a gentleman." What are your specifications?"—Charles.

Answer: There is much truth in the first description quoted and the second is entirely true. While your maid or butler would properly announce a cultured stranger at your door or telephone as a "gentleman" you would not with good taste say that your sister was going out tonight with a certain "gentleman."

"Boy" or "man" would be the proper alternatives. Neither a long pedigree, a place in the social register, a university degree, an expensive car or a luxurious home are prerequisites of a gentleman in these days. But these are: Proper use of the English language, which can be learned in the common school, no further than the grammar school grades; a knowledge of the laws of etiquette, which can be learned from 25-cent text-books; good taste in dress, which means the avoidance of fads, particularly in sports clothes and jewelry; refusal to respond to or repeat scandal or gossip, especially when affecting women; strict avoidance of loud talking, loud laughter and rough-housing; absolute dignity while in public or on social occasions; absolute courtesy to women whether friends or strangers—particularly rising when they enter a room, pulling their chairs out at table, helping them in and out of conveyances; promptitude in all social correspondence; avoidance of religious or political arguments on social occasions, also of risqué jokes; never being haughty to the humble or humble to the haughty. If you are a 100 per cent gentleman you will never unconsciously annoy anyone and will never do so consciously—except in the defense of women, children, aged or defenseless people or your home.

Question: Should the bride's mother give a wedding breakfast or a morning reception after a small home wedding? Only the members of both families and a few close friends will be present. The wedding will take place at 11 o'clock. Please suggest a buffet style menu.—Cynthia.

Answer: Yes, the bride's mother should serve refreshments—preferably a buffet luncheon at about 12:30. Here are a few suggestions for a menu: Lobster salad, Julienne potatoes, rolls, coffee, wedding cake, nuts and candy. Tomato stuffed with chicken salad, Julienne potatoes or braised potato chips, rolls, coffee and wedding cake. Cold sliced meats, Swiss cheese, potato salad, rolls, coffee, wedding cake. Any of these will be very appropriate for a summer luncheon and very easy to serve.

Tomorrow—Don't Have Food Complexes.

THE TRAGEDY

A business man employs two Negroes to work on his gardens, which he personally oversees. One morning Sam did not appear.

"Where is Sam, George?" he asked. "In de hospital, sir." "Why, how did that happen?"

"Well, Sam he been a-tellin me ev'ry mornin' fo' 10 days he gwine to lick his wife, cause o' her naggin'." "Well?" "Well, yesterday she done overheard him, dat's all."

Personally, we'd like to see the word "servant" abolished and replaced with "helper."

A man in a restaurant ate a hearty meal and called for the proprietor.

"Five years ago," he told him, "I dined in this restaurant, and you threw me out because I couldn't pay."

"Please accept my apologies," said the restaurant owner.

"Don't mention it," said the man; "just throw me out again."

A woman was giving herself a boost through much trouble and disappointment. "I've had plenty of trouble in my life, but I've kept my chin up through it all," she said.

"Keep it up, dear?" replied her catty neighbor. "Why, you've doubled it."

TEN THINGS FOR WHICH NO PERSON HAS EVER BEEN SORRY ARE:

For doing good to all.
For hearing before judging.
For holding an angry tongue.
For speaking evil of none.
For thinking before speaking.
For asking pardon for all wrongs.
For being kind to the distressed.
For being patient toward everybody.

For stopping the ears of a talebearer.
For disbelieving most of the ill reports.

A few men find social security through matrimony, others marry for love.

A friend of mine who is a stickler for business ethics went broke. The motto hanging on his wall has now been changed to read:

"Honest is the best policy."

A beaver man claims he was walking along the street and all at once found himself floating in the air. A trick motorcycle rider was standing on his bike when it hit him. Just riding one of those things is bad enough without standing on it and doing tricks.

The chief of police in Kansas City advises women to scratch the faces of men with their colored nails when they try to snatch their purses. This will give the police something to go by.

A good way to go crazy now is to believe much of the war news that is being splattered over the world every day.

Some men court, then marry, and then go to court again.

What's What At A Glance

Separate Air Department Opposed
Stimson And Knox Against Proposal
Legislation On Plan Is Now Pending

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist
WASHINGTON, July 3.—

NEITHER War Secretary Henry L. Stimson nor Navy Secretary Frank Knox likes the idea of having aviation divorced from their respective services and put under control of an air secretary, with a cabinet department of his own.

Nevertheless, legislation to that end is pending on Capitol Hill. Congress may not adopt the plan, but there's considerable sentiment in its favor. Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada notably is plugging for it. The argument for it is that the current war has revealed up-to-date aviation as so vital an arm that it's doubtful if it isn't more important than surface forces, either on land or sea. Secretaries Stimson and Knox recognize how essential it is, but insist that it's more essential to the army and navy than it would be by itself.

Secretary Stimson agrees, however, that army airships' control has been overly split up into training, operations, procurement and research divisions. According to him, he issued an order consolidating them into a single unit under command of Major General Henry A. Arnold, who also is the whole army's deputy chief of staff.

Some critics contend, though, that the entire military establishment is too much specialized. One group's artillery. Another's infantry. A third's cavalry. Also engineers. Now aviation, though consolidated into a set-up of its separate own, still figures as a distinct command. There are strategists who reason that an army officer ought to be just an army officer, not an officer of artillery, infantry, cavalry, engineers or aviation.

The navy isn't so sub-divided. The marines are in something of a class by themselves, and so are the aviators, but they, too, like the blue-jackets, all are under the direct orders of the commander of their fleet.

Most other countries of any consequence have each of them separate air departments or ministries or their various own, and they seem to work alright.

Co-ordination Lacking

Yes, admits Secretary Stimson, but those other countries, besides their war, navy and aviation departments, have, overtopping the trio of em, a supreme general staff, which co-ordinates their activities into a single army, naval and aviation joint campaign. We haven't any such unification of direction of our forces. Our war and navy departments operate independently of one another. Now, if we create a third independent department (aviation), confusion and lots of lost motion will result. At least, so our army and navy departmental spokesmen insist.

This isn't altogether disputed. There's been an undercurrent of sentiment in Congress for a long time to the effect that we could advantageously merge our war and navy departments (and take in aviation now that it's developed as it has) into one department of national defense.

That notion isn't being boosted for just at present, but it has been and may be suggested again.

Of course such a department would have to have undersecretaries, a navy undersecretary, a naval undersecretary and an aviatorist one. But they all would be subject to the authority of the boss secretary of the whole thing.

To be sure the president of the United States, as commander-in-chief of all our armed forces, occupies something such a position already, but he naturally has so many other duties to attend to that

SAN FRANCISCO—Charles A. Lindbergh urges Americans to oppose alliance with Soviet Russia.

BOSTON—Governor Herbert R. O'Connor of Maryland makes a plea for fair government.

"In these days of danger and disaster, we must still now as much as ever maintain a balance between man's rights and state sovereignty."

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va.—Former Governor Philip La Follette of Wisconsin believes it would be a disaster for America to enter the war.

A Look At Realities

WASHINGTON, July 3.

THERE is no reason why the "New War" as the German-Russian conflict is called, should concentrate attention upon our own military weaknesses and defense deficiencies. Yet, illogically enough, such seems to be the case. And, if that lessens the tendency to be smug and self-satisfied about what we have, and what we are doing, then the net for us will be a gain, no matter what happens in Russia.

BECAUSE, from the start, the basic defect in the American effort has been refusal of those in authority either to face facts themselves or to acquaint the people with them. Instead, optimistic but misleading reports of "progress" have been made and the more bellicose administration spokesmen have conveyed a false, though perhaps comforting, idea of our might. Various things have occurred in the past 10 days to dissipate that notion, which is a good thing.

IT is interesting that this reversion to realities followed the President's declaration that we were giving the British aid.

Russia the same kind of aid we are giving the British. Immediately this was revealed as a completely hollow promise. For one thing, we have no idea what the Russians need, if anything, for another, if we knew, we could not meet their needs, because we lack the goods; for another, if we had the goods, there are no ships to use for transport and no feasible route by which they could reach a Russian port, if we had the ships to spare.

TO all this should be added the vast public distaste for helping Communists in Russia because of the respectability and immunity which such aid would seem to confer on Communists here. Against these a justifiable American anger has been aroused. Few want to see it diminished or diverted. Hence, from both the practical and the emotional viewpoint, the aid-to-Russia suggestion has fallen very flat indeed. Clearly, the action indicated for us by the German-Russian conflict is to send more supplies to the British—and faster. Nothing else makes sense.

WHETHER, after this became plain, steps to speed up were really taken is not certain. What is certain is that from various sources facts began to develop about American inadequacy which ought to have the effect of shattering both public and official complacency. The President

GOLFER'S MAIL
World over, golfers tell the pro: From year to year they wonder whether

The happy day they'll ever know
When they will put two shots together

The perfect drive as drives are reckoned
Is followed with a faulty second.

This mail is heard at every club:
"Never my two good strokes are mated!"

Always the second one I dub,
Always to blunder I am fated."

This is what breaks a golfer's heart:
His good shots fall so far apart.

If from the tee my ball goes far
To find the fairway smooth and grassy,

Then ten to one the chances are
I'll hook or slice with spoon or brassie.

Off flies the ball to gorse or heather;
Send two good shots come together

Many Prominent Britishers Have Died In Air Raids

Lord And Lady Stamp, Lord Auckland, And Earl Of Suffolk Killed

HAVE BRAVELY FACED ENEMY

By FRANK EGGLESTON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, July 3.—German claims that many of Britain's most wealthy and famous people have fled the country to safe and secluded hide-outs, have now been disproved. From recent reports, and a close survey of events which have led to their deaths, it can now be disclosed that many of them have died as victims of Luftwaffe attacks on London and gallantly and bravely on the far flung battlefields of World War II.

Lord and Lady Stamp, among the hundreds killed during a recent severe London blitz, were sheltering in their concrete basement when their house suffered a direct hit from a high-explosive bomb. Both Lord and Lady Stamp were killed together with their eldest son and four members of their domestic staff.

The rescue squads working throughout the night brought from the wreckage one survivor, a 17-year-old maid, found dead deep in water in a blazing compartment.

Another peer killed in a recent raid was Flight Lieut. Lord Auckland. Having experienced the destruction of two apartments over his head, Lord Auckland had taken his third apartment in a neighboring building. It was here that he met his death.

Died Fighting In Air

Lord Shuttleworth, R. A. F. pilot, was killed after his squadron had attacked a formation of Nazi bombers over the English Channel.

Sir Thomas Aubrey Watson was killed on active service in the Middle East.

The Hon. Christopher Furness was reported missing following the British retreat from France.

The Earl of Suffolk was another of Britain's well known men to meet death at the hands of the Luftwaffe.

The Earl had, with great daring and initiative, saved rare and precious chemicals for Britain and safely brought them home by a hazardous route through Norway and France.

Together with him perished his secretary and six other people. The Earl, at the age of 33, had been Guards officer, tramp steamer apprentice, sheepfarm hand, and scientist. At the age of 17 he had sailed round the world in a wind-jammer.

At approximately the time of this announcement, the death of the Earl of Kimberley was reported.

Kimberley had been assistant private secretary to Premier Winston Churchill when the latter was colonial secretary.

Before his succeeding to the title of Kimberley and known as Lord Wodehouse, he had won international fame as a polo player.

Flanders Casualty

Henry George Alan Percy, Ninth Duke of Northumberland, one of Britain's wealthiest men, was also killed in Flanders, but no details have yet been received as to the events which led to his death.

Of all Britain's titled, perhaps the most unfortunate were the deaths of Lord North and his sister Lady Cynthia.

Lord North, his wife, and Lady Cynthia had climbed over some barbed wire during a Sunday morning walk on the South East coast, and accidentally trod on a mine. The explosion killed Lord North and his sister at once. Lady North was gravely injured.

The sons of the Dean of St. Pauls, Dr. W. R. Inge and Lionel Atwill, the actor, have both recently been reported killed as a result of enemy action. They were Pilot Officer Richard Inge, aged 25, and Flying Officer John Arthur Atwill.

Of Britain's visitors in World War II, the deaths of the two sons of Belgian Prime Minister M. Hubert Pierlot aroused deep sympathy throughout the country.

Train Disaster

The boys were among the six schoolboys killed when a coach of a northbound express caught fire. They were returning to school after their Easter vacation and died of burns, despite prompt and expert medical attention.

SAM H. HARRIS IS TAKEN BY DEATH

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 3.—Sam H. Harris, Broadway theatrical producer and an outstanding figure in the amusement world for many years, died today at his apartment in a mid-town hotel.

Cause of death was not immediately stated, but the beloved showman had been ill for several weeks.

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

St. Paul

"Come over into Macedonia, and help us."—Acts 16:9.

There are so many dramatic and stirring episodes in today's Bible lesson, that we will have time only to touch on them lightly, which is a pity.

At the beginning of this journey of the great missionary, Paul, he and his friend, Barnabas, who had worked so well together, had a disagreement. You remember Barnabas had a nephew, John Mark, who had been with them before, but left before their work was done. Paul suggested to Barnabas that they "go again and visit our brethren in every city where we have preached the word of the Lord, and see how they do."

Barnabas wanted to take John with them, but Paul did not want him, and the disagreement was "so sharp," St. Luke tells us, that the two comrades separated. Barnabas sailing to Cyprus with John and Paul choosing Silas to go with him to Syria and Cilicia where they "confirmed the churches."

At Lystra there was a disciple whose mother was a Jew, but whose father was Greek, and Paul took this Timothy with him. The Holy Ghost directed their travels, and some places where they planned to stop the spirit forbade them. When they came to Tross, however, Paul had a vision. "There stood a man of Macedonia, and prayed him, saying, Come into Macedonia, and help us."

Disciples Meet Lydia In Philippi, chief city of that part of Macedonia, where apparently the Jews had no synagogue, they went to the river-side, the place of prayer, and preached and there they met a woman named Lydia, evidently a successful business woman, a seller of dyed materials, especially the expensive purple cloth. She and all her household were baptized and she asked them to come to stay with her.

Now in this city was a certain damsel who by the possession of a certain spirit, worked magic, and made a good deal of money for her master and his companion. She followed Paul about, crying, "These men are the servants of the most high God, which show unto us the way of salvation." Paul stood it for some time, then fearing the wrong impression was given, he cast the evil spirit out of the woman. Her masters, realizing that they would get no more profit from her, haled Paul and Silas to the market-place before the rules, saying they were trouble makers. These magistrates tore the clothes from the disciples, beat them severely, and threw them into prison and fastened their feet in the stocks, telling the jailer to keep them safe.

At midnight the two missionaries prayed and sang praises to God, and suddenly there was a great earthquake, and the doors of the prison were opened and the shackles fell from them. The keeper awoke, and, thinking his prisoners had fled, he was about to kill himself, when Paul called to him not to harm himself, as they were all there.

Keeper Believes

The trembling keeper fell down on his knees before Paul and asked what he should do to be saved. He and all his household were converted.

and baptized, and he took them to his house, washed their wounds and set food before them. Early in the morning the magistrates sent word that Paul and Silas were to be freed. Paul, however, said they had been unjustly beaten and imprisoned, and as they were Roman citizens, the magistrates themselves should come down personally and free them—which they did.

Several times after this, in their journeys, unbelieving Jews tried to injure these two noble men and prevent them from preaching and converting, and always Paul escaped and went on. They were driven out of Thessalonica and went to Berea, where again Paul had to flee, but he left Silas and Timothy behind and went to Athens.

Athens was at that time the seat of learning in Greece, noted for its wisdom and the discourses of its philosophers. Waiting for Silas and Timothy in Athens, Paul daily disputed in the synagogues with the Jews and the philosophers in the market place. He was struck with the adulatory of the citizens. Certain philosophers took him to Mars Hill, where their orators spoke. There they asked him to expound his gospel.

Here he made that memorable speech beginning: "Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too superstitious. For as I passed by, and beheld your devotions, I found an altar with this inscription, To the Unknown God. Whom therefore ye ignorantly worship, I declare unto you." Then Paul spoke of the God who made the earth and all that is therein, and led up to Jesus. His Son, His life, death and resurrection, and how he commanded men everywhere to repent.

Some mocked at Paul, some said they would hear him further; but many also believed.

Girl Scouts of Troop 7, who meet in the Trinity church, held their court of awards, out-of-doors. Mrs. Travis French is the leader of the troop, and assistant leader is Mrs. Jack Houston.

Twenty-seven Red Cross certificates were awarded for home nursing to the scout, and the presentation of the certificates was made by Margaret Bodenstein, executive director of the Lawrence County Chapter of Red Cross. For the past three months the scouts have been taking this new course at Red Cross headquarters, using the equipment of the chapter, with the cooperation of the Red Cross executive. The course was taught by leader, Mrs. French, who is a registered nurse. In reward for taking this course, Miss Bodenstein will present to the troop an American flag and standard, for being the first troop to take this new course.

Miss Helen MacLean, girl scout director, presented the home nursing badges numbering to 27; 17 first aid badges; 6 garden flower funder; 1 swimmer's badge; 7 second-class badges; and the four following first-class badges: Jane and Ann Parsons, Isabelle Nicholson and Pauline Zeigler. Three pins were given to new scouts: Christina Christos, Alice Mitsos and Helen Papazikos.

On Saturday, the troop will have a swimming party at New Wilmington. During the last week in July, the older scouts will have an overnight hike at the girl scout camp at Kennedy's Mills along the Slippery Rock creek. The home nursing notebook of Ann Parsons' will be sent to the Red Cross National Headquarters at Washington, D. C., for its accuracy and excellence in composition.

A marshmallow and wiener roast was enjoyed around the huge bonfire, and later group singing was enjoyed, closing activities. The meetings for the troop have been discontinued until October.

Congress Is Divided On Plan To Extend Service In U. S. Army

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, July 3.—The proposal of Gen. George C. Marshall that legal restrictions against sending troops outside the Western Hemisphere be removed created a storm of controversy on Capitol Hill today.

Some hitherto staunch Democrats opposed the plan, while others said that they would trust the army and White House leadership. The non-intervention bloc was lining up solidly against it.

Marshall's proposal that conscripts and the National Guard be kept in service beyond the year stipulated in the selective service law also threatened a lively fight.

Comment from members of congress included:

Sen. Wheeler (D) Mont., leader of the non-intervention bloc: "I am very much opposed to the recommendation that American soldiers be used outside the Western Hemisphere. I see no emergency which would warrant such action. I should oppose this to the utmost."

Sen. Ellender (D) La., an administration supporter: "The administration may be in possession of facts that we in congress do not have. I am willing to trust them and go the limit to protect our hemisphere."

Sen. Adams (D) Colo.: "I'll never vote for that. This is just another step in a long program that might lead to war. Each week they ask for something new. Step by step they want to get us into war."

Sen. Downey (D) Cal., a member of the Senate Military Affairs Committee: "I certainly would be

Youths Confess Thefts From Autos

Two 17-year-old youths of New Castle, said by city police to have "owned up" to petty thefts of articles from parked automobiles, got a blunt warning from Mayor Charles B. Mayne in police court today to mend their ways.

Chief of Police Willis G. McMullen said the young men were discharged after the lecture. He declined to reveal their names. Because of their youth, he added.

"These boys heard the mayor's warning, and I think they'll heed it alright."

Secretary Ickes Takes New Steps In Oil Situation

To Crack Down On Eastern Motorists Using Too Much Gas And Oil

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, July 3.—Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes today disclosed that he will ask municipal and state highway authorities in eastern seaboard states to use their powers of arrest to force motorists to conserve gasoline.

Ickes, pointing to the threatened oil shortage in the east, said that cities and states should adopt the same measures that he already has put into effect in Washington parks and parkways under control of the interior department.

The interior secretary has ordered park police to arrest motorists whose cars throw off too much smoke because of their motors excessively burning gasoline. He also has told police to arrest motorists who use their motors to make what he said was quick "jackrabbit" starts.

"It is estimated that 250,000,000 million gallons of oil and gasoline are wasted each month in eastern seaboard states by motorists whose cars are not in proper shape," Ickes said. "Removal of this waste would be a partial answer to the situation."

Ickes also announced:

1. Secretaries of the Navy Knox has agreed to put two giant navy tankers in service to provide civilian oil and gas on the eastern seaboard.
2. Householders should use coal instead of oil for heat next winter wherever possible.
3. The United States will cooperate with Latin-American countries to relieve a similar threatened oil shortage because of divergence of tankers.
4. Ickes asked big oil companies to transport oil and gas to eastern seaboard by railroad tank cars and to absorb the increased cost of transportation.

Standard Oil of New Jersey already has agreed to this, he said.

The interstate commerce commission, at Ickes request, will consider reducing oil tank car rates to facilitate movement of products to the east.

Ickes, after a conference earlier in the day with representatives of 24 federal agencies dealing with oil problems, declared there is a possibility that more American tankers may be needed to supply Great Britain's pressing oil needs.

"I do not regard this as improbable although I have no definite information," Ickes said.

One person suffered minor injuries when two cars side-swiped on the Mt. Jackson road Wednesday evening.

Nick Frank, 108 Tremont street, New Castle, received treatment in Jameson Memorial hospital for facial cuts and lacerations. William J. Stanczak, 235 Jefferson street, Butler, Pa., driver of the other car, escaped injuries.

ORDERS BARN TORN DOWN
Fire Chief James E. Thomas today asked City Council to order the immediate razing of an old barn in the rear of 106 Pine street. He described it as a "fire hazard."

AUTO FIRE BRINGS OUT FIVE TRUCKS
Five fire companies were called into action at 8:40 o'clock Wednesday evening, when someone called in to Central station, excitedly, and said to come to the Victor theater on East Washington street.

An alarm was sounded from box 26, and when the five fire trucks arrived, they found the fire was in an automobile owned by Carl Prime of 211 Home street, Almina N. Y. The damage was slight.

Five states in the United States have never had a recorded lynching. They are Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont.

Pat Mullin Lost To Detroit Tigers
(International News Service)
CHICAGO, July 3.—Pat Mullin, sensational rookie outfielder, will be lost to the Detroit Tigers for the rest of the season. It was announced today at the Billings Memorial hospital, when it was discovered that he suffered a dislocated shoulder and a broken collar bone in last night's game between the Chicago White Sox and the Tigers, which Detroit won 1 to 0.

The injuries were suffered when Mullin collided with White Sox Pitcher Bill Dietrich at first base. Mullin had hit a hard ground ball to Joe Kuhel, Sox first baseman, and the latter tossed the ball to Dietrich for the putout. Mullin crashed into Dietrich and both men went down, the former falling on his shoulder.

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, July 3.—Pat Mullin, sensational rookie outfielder, will be lost to the Detroit Tigers for the rest of the season. It was announced today at the Billings Memorial hospital, when it was discovered that he suffered a dislocated shoulder and a broken collar bone in last night's game between the Chicago White Sox and the Tigers, which Detroit won 1 to 0.

The injuries were suffered when Mullin collided with White Sox Pitcher Bill Dietrich at first base. Mullin had hit a hard ground ball to Joe Kuhel, Sox first baseman, and the latter tossed the ball to Dietrich for the putout. Mullin crashed into Dietrich and both men went down, the former falling on his shoulder.

Gaston Post Is Ready To Serve In Air Warning

Organization Is Perfected With Fred M. Alexander As General Chairman

OBSERVATION POSTS LOCATED

Perry S. Gaston Post, American Legion, is ready to do its share in national defense in more ways than one, and has completed organization of its aircraft warning service, under the chairmanship of Fred M. Alexander, Commander Walter Dietrich announced today.

Under the American Legion setup, as advocated by the United States War department, aircraft observation posts are established every 12 miles, covering an area of 36 square miles. Spotters are placed in a strategic location to watch for the approach of aircraft, and when one is sighted immediately by telephone to a central area office, from which intercepting planes would be sent out to cut them off and engage them in the event the nation should become engaged in war.

The observation posts under the direction of Chairman Alexander have been located in the vicinity of Flamingo, Grant City, East Brook, New Castle Field club and the Seventh Ward. The other sections of the county are being covered by the Mt. Jackson and Ellwood City American Legion posts.

Assisting Chairman Alexander are the following chief observers: James L. Vogan, Harold Sampson, Clare B. Book, Orville Potter and Ralph T. Jordan; assistant observers, J. Leperc Matthews, Earl C. Moffatt.

Cruiser Blaze Quickly Quelled

(International News Service)

CAMDEN, N. J., July 3.—A short circuit in electric insulation was blamed today for a fire which broke out on the 10,000-ton cruiser Cleveland under construction at the New York Shipbuilding Corp. in Camden. Yard firemen donned gas masks and plunged through dense smoke to extinguish the trifling blaze in the ship's hold. Four months ago a section of the Cleveland, which is to cost $17,990,000, was scorched when a welder's torch touched off an oxygen hose.

In the vast area of Alaska, which exceeds the combined area of the 19 states lying east of the Mississippi and north of North Carolina and Tennessee, there are only four places—Juneau, Anchorage, Ketchikan, and Fairbanks—which, according to census usage, are classifiable as "urban." The largest of these places, Juneau, the capital, had 5,729 inhabitants in 1939.

Non-Intervention Bloc Sees Chance To Bring Peace

Urges Roosevelt To Seek End Of Hostilities Between Britain And Germany

By ROBERT A. MCGILL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Leaders of the senate non-intervention bloc, convinced that the Russo-German war affords an opportunity for peace between Great Britain and the Nazis, today urged President Roosevelt to appeal for an end of hostilities.

The proposal that the president attempt to negotiate an armistice between Germany and Great Britain looking toward a peace conference came from Sens. Wheeler (D) Mont., Taft (R) Ohio, and Nye (R) N. D.

Wheeler and Nye suggested that the president make such an appeal in his nation-wide Independence Day address tomorrow, but Taft proposed that the negotiations be carried on "quietly."

All are agreed, however, that since start of the Russo-German war prospects of a negotiated peace between Great Britain and the Nazis are much brighter.

Wheeler said that a negotiated peace now would be "the quickest and surest way to defeat Hitler." He predicted that even though Hitler should conquer Russia "his empire will crack and crumble" in the future, and that it is unnecessary for Great Britain to prosecute the war to the end.

The Great Game Of Politics

himself started it with a statement that there was here a "woeful scarcity" of small-arms ammunition. This had been known before, but not publicly proclaimed. In other words, we have the guns but nothing to put in them. In addition, Mr. Roosevelt expressed some dissatisfaction with the results of the defense machinery. Heretofore the official attitude has been that everything was going satisfactorily.

ON top of the President's revelation came the scathing report of the House Military committee, which asserted that a series of major "failures" and "delays" have led to a "serious lack of strategic material." Aluminum, rubber, smokeless powder and various raw products were mentioned. The committee, which is headed by a Democrat, attributed this "serious situation" largely to the "absence of a responsible head with authority" and also to administration preoccupation in recent years with "social reforms" rather than national security.

SIMULTANEOUSLY with the military committee's report came a severe criticism of the army from Lieut. Gen. Ben Lear, who after the Tennessee maneuvers addressed a meeting of 300 staff officers. Among the "failures" he listed were: "Our chain of command, from the officers down to the ranks, is weak—weak to the extent that, if the condition continues, the chain, at its weakest link, will break when a heavy load is imposed." The general also mentioned shortages in anti-tank guns and other more or less vital things.

IN the same time a number of military experts, commenting on the Tennessee maneuvers, expressed the conviction that after a year's effort the army is "far short of war efficiency," greatly lacking in equipment and overloaded with incompetent officers, wedded to outworn ideas. Supplementing these trenchant remarks came the speech in the House of Representative Woodrum (Dem.). He stated that the state of unpreparedness, and that "there are many reasons we should not go abroad, but it is necessary to state only one—we have neither the troops nor the equipment."

POT all these things together and picture they make is not pretty, but it is useful. At least, it can be useful if it serves to end the practice of overstating our assets and understating our liabilities. It can be most useful if it centers the energies of those in authority upon correcting defects instead of ignoring them. At any rate, it makes the folly of trying to aid Russia, except through accelerated aid to British, very plain indeed. That is the thing upon which to concentrate. That will take all the energy, the time, the money, the food, the ships and the brains we have available. Maybe more.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

The under-privileged children who now are offenders naturally emulating the more privileged children would also tend to cease destroying. Indeed, the hope of reducing crime in our nation lies in cultivating the best citizenship among the children of the more privileged parents. As sure as night follows day, they set the patterns of conduct, in the long run, among the rank and file of children.

The Duty Of Parents
Yet me beg of my fellow parents, especially in these days, to do their utmost to teach their children to respect private and public possessions, which is the same as saying "respect the rights of others." Parents who start this teaching when the child begins to toddle and continue it without ceasing, should be able to produce good types of citizens and thereby contribute most to the citizenship of their community.

Parents who would like to read further on what I have written about teaching children to respect the rights of others, may find more in my books, "Marriage and Parenthood," and "The Modern Parent," and my pamphlet, "To Punish or Not To Punish: When and How," all of which you will probably find in your public library.

The World and the Mud Puddles

gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. "But in the larger sense, we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead, we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom—and that the government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

A FEW YEARS BACK America concentrated on the idea of a "Safe and Sane Fourth of July". Through the earnest effort of public-spirited citizens, and law enforcement agencies . . . the children of America are far safer on Independence Day.

We've saved the children from their own carelessness. Now let's have a "safe and sane" 4th, 5th and 6th of July on the highways!

Over this three-day Independence Day weekend . . . let's make a real start toward reducing the holiday toll on Pennsylvania highways. It can be done if you do your part. Before you start anywhere, be sure your car is in good mechanical condition . . . that its brakes, tires, and lights are in perfect trim. On your way . . . there and back . . . drive carefully, courteously, completely in control of your car every split-second!

Watch for children on the roads . . . going on picnics . . . playing ball. Keep under fifty . . . and keep on your own side of the road at all times. Allow plenty of time for your trip. You know now that traffic will be heavy . . . so plan now to start early . . . to use the less-travelled roads wherever and whenever possible.

Be a good American on this great American holiday by driving safely and sanely on the 4th, 5th and 6th . . . and throughout the year.

Old Moore Homestead Has Been Dismantled

One Of The Last Landmarks To Go; Find Scissors, Old Drumstick And Buttons

The old Moore homestead on North street, between Mercer and Jefferson streets, which was one of the landmarks of the city has been razed in the past few weeks. Several old family trinkets were discovered by Bert Coates, who razed the building.

The building, according to Mr. Coates, was more than 100 years old and was probably erected around 1832 or 1848 at the latest, when straight saws were used. It had a hewed frame and marks in the wood showed that the straight saw was used, which only cuts when the blade comes down. A solid mahogany staircase was removed, and there was evidence of three roofs, the one having been made of split shingles.

William Emery, a carpenter and cabinet maker of that time, who also built the Rich Hill church, built the homestead for John R. Moore, grandfather of Mrs. Herbert P. Davidson of the Youngtown road.

Mr. Moore was a blacksmith by trade and had his shop beside his residence, and this shop was located on the corner of Cochran way and North street, where Attorney Robert M. White's office is now located.

Between the joists of the first and second floors three pairs of scissors, a drumstick, a string of buttons, a thimble, and a shiny gimlet were found near a rat's nest, and a long skeleton of a rat was discovered.

Never mind how wonderful you were in youth. Even buzzards are snow white till they're half-grown.

Latin-American Nations To Grant U. S. War Aid

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Latin-American nations, banding together under hemispheric solidarity, today prepared to grant the United States unlimited use of air and naval facilities in case of war.

Under a proposal advanced by the government of Uruguay in the cause of inter-American defense, the United States will be assured of continued access to strategic air and naval bases, shipyards and other vital facilities in Central and South America.

The Uruguayan proposal calls upon the 21 American republics to cast aside their neutrality should any of their neighbors go to war in defense of their rights against nations of other continents.

The United States gave unqualified approval to the suggestion and in a note to Uruguay, the state department urged other Latin-American nations to give similar endorsement.

During the past three days, Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles has held conferences with various Latin-American envoys in Washington informing them of this government's support of the Uruguayan plan.

American diplomatic officials have been assured informally that the proposal will find general acceptance among the 20 latin republics. It is reported that Argentina may withhold formal approval but officials explained that this nation already has indicated its willingness to cooperate with the United States in defense matters.

Measure Seeks To Protect Retailers

Aimed At So-called "Wholesale Racket" In State Of Pennsylvania

By JOHN PAGET
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, July 3.—Protection of Pennsylvania's retailers from the so-called "wholesale racket" was assured today under the provisions of a bill pointed for final action in the senate Monday.

It was drafted to halt the diversion of millions of dollars annually from bona fide stores through purchases made "at cost" by company individuals or organizations.

The measure was successfully piloted through the house by Rep. Reuben E. Cohen, Philadelphia Democrat, by a vote of 146-25.

Sen. John H. Dent, Westmoreland Democrat, explained that merchandise ranging from shirts to electric refrigerators are bought at production cost by company buyers on courtesy discounts extended by other manufacturers and passed on to private individuals at no increase in price.

Dent estimated more than $20,000,000 is lost annually by retailers in the Philadelphia area due to the wholesale diversion of sales.

When the measure was called up for action at Tuesday's session, Sen. A. Evans Kephart, Philadelphia Republican, attempted to insert amendments into the bill which Dent contended would neutralize the proposal.

He charged the Kephart amendments would curb the effectiveness of the measure aimed at halting what he termed the "I-can-get-it-for-you-wholesale-racket."

A storm of debate was touched off by Kephart's attempt and the militant Democratic minority succeeded in forcing the Republicans to withdraw their amendments and postpone final action on the bill until Monday.

The bill would prohibit employers from selling or procuring for sale to employees or others "any merchandise not produced by the employers or not handled in the regular course of the employers' business."

It does not apply to the sale or distribution of meals, candy, cigarettes, cigars, tobacco or tools or materials used or worn by the employees.

The measure was amended in the senate committee to make certain that the bill's provisions would not apply to any person or firm engaged in business from operating a bona fide store for the sale of goods to employees and others.

Cohen stated that the purpose of the proposed legislation was to halt a practice causing a loss of taxes to the commonwealth, interfering with the normal flow of business and setting up an unfair method of competition.

The bill fails to define penalties but states that violations would be considered "unfair competition and is actionable at the suit of any person damaged."

Nazi Report Says 768,950 Tons Of Shipping Sunk

(International News Service)

BERLIN, July 3.—The high command announced today that during the month of June the German air force and navy sank 768,950 tons of enemy merchant ships.

Last night, it was announced, a 5,000-ton merchant vessel was sunk by a direct bomb hit in St. George's channel and German planes also successfully bombed "war-important objectives and port facilities" on the English west coast.

Editor's note: The British air ministry said German raiders appeared over Britain during the night but dropped no bombs.

The German high command also stated that 23 British airplanes were shot down during the past 24 hours —21 in fighting over French soil and two more last night.

News Notes From Camp East Brook

Tuesday, another warm day, brought more excitement and fun to the East Brook campers. It all began with an unusual game of follow-the-leader, after the assembly period. "Greenie" led the girls on a trek through all the cabins to determine the nearest one of the morning. There were a few red faces as the procession wound around from one cabin to another. "Skipper's" "Shenango Cabin" was declared the winner. This group has set a fine record the last few days and challenge the other cabins to outdo them!

During the day "Kit" held a meeting with camper representatives for the purpose of arranging the East Brook historical information in pageant form. The girls, as well as "Bans", "Scottie", and "Chirp", her assistants, were most enthusiastic in their response. The results of their efforts will be given for the parents and visitors, on the lawn of the camp, Saturday at 2:00. It will be followed by a swimming exhibition at the pool.

The counselors took time off at four o'clock for a few minutes lark. They marched down the hill to the swimming pool, in stately procession, to tease and please the hard working swimming instructors. "Skipper" and "Splash". The group filed up on the diving board while "Tycoon", in the lead, dangled cookies on strings for the two life savers to jump for. As a reward for their antics and efforts they were given glasses of iced tea.

In the evening "Scottie" and "Peanuche" led the group on a merry hare and hound chase, a favorite with East Brook Campers. The hares stole very carefully out of camp leaving only traces of confetti along the way for foot prints. About a half hour later they were overtaken by the hounds and then returned to camp. A perfect sunset made a beautiful background for the return trip of the weary, but happy, hares and hounds.

Liberty

This year the importance of the Fourth of July is emphasized by the affairs of the world. On this day we Americans observe the founding of a country that is unique among all nations. This uniqueness arises from the fact that the people of America are the government. They decide what is best for themselves. They make their own laws, govern their own conduct. They are free to think as they please. They are free to do as they please. America achieves its goal of Liberty and Freedom in a way that satisfies a majority of its citizens. Its flag symbolizes these precepts of utopian life . . . as the happiness of its people typify America's great success.

Legislature Breaks 100-Year-Old Record For Session

Adjournment Not Yet Fixed

Present Session Is Lasting Longer Than Any Other In Past Century

SESSION IN 1842 LASTED 204 DAYS

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, July 3.—The general assembly will begin the 179th day of its regular session tomorrow, breaking a 100-year-old record for longevity, without any indication of when final adjournment will come.

A renewal of the "peace conferences" between Gov. Arthur H. James and Democratic legislative leaders which broke down over the governor's insistence for creation of a state W. P. A. cannot be expected before next week. Legislators and party leaders departed Tuesday for their homes to spend the July 4th holiday week-end.

Although both sides now appear deadlocked over enactment of the administration "little W. P. A." bill, with House Majority Leader Leo A. Achterman asserting no compromise was possible and the governor saying he was "adamant" in his stand, nevertheless, other considerations were expected to bring them together again within the near future.

Eager To Adjourn

Both Democratic and Republican legislators are eager to begin their summer vacations and those who have run up big hotel bills at the capital since they received their last paychecks on April 1 are anxious to obtain the final $500 payment due them when the legislature adjourns. Agreement has already been reached on virtually all other obstacles of importance.

This is the first legislature to sit in regular session for more than 178 days since 1842, when the general assembly remained in session for 204 days. There have been three 178-day regular sessions, in 1897, 1901 and 1917. A special session in 1883 lasted for 183 days and this record will be beaten also next Wednesday.

The dispute over the "little W. P. A." bill, which has already been approved by the Senate and is now in House committee, disrupted previously-agreed plans adopted by the governor and legislative leaders to have the legislature adjourn sine die by July 12.

Water Problem For New Plant Believed Solved

The Beaver Falls municipal authority has offered to run a main from its reservoir to the new plant within 10 days, if necessary, at an approximate cost of $15,000.

Regular scheduled celebrations of the Fourth of July will be held Friday in Aliquippa, Ambridge and Midland. Speaking, athletic events and fireworks display will feature the programs.

Two Heat Deaths At Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 3.—Youngstown on Wednesday marked up its second heat death of the season after Nick Radu, 73, died in South Side hospital.

The death, first believed to have been caused by a heart attack, was attributed to heat exhaustion after a post mortem examination.

The first case of sunburn requiring hospital treatment was recorded when James McNulty, 40, was brought to St. Elizabeth's hospital from a swimming pool. Hospital attendants said he had second-degree burns.

Keep 'Em Flying

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, July 3.—"Keep 'em flying" is the new nation-wide expression of unity in the defense effort.

The War Department today asked the State Council of Defense to help popularize the slogan and make "keep 'em flying" the symbol of "progress in the whole national defense program as well as to airplanes."

Roosevelt has committed our nation to the job of destroying Hitlerism. That's done, and all sensible debate must go on from there.

Parsons, Johnstown, N. Y., August 19-24.

Rev. R. J. Fredericks, pastor of the tabernacle, states that this conference will afford members and friends the opportunity of hearing speakers who are heard at some of the leading Bible conferences.

Other features will be spirited congregational singing from the new hymn books with special vocal and instrumental selections at every session.

It is anticipated that the attendance will surpass that of former conferences. The record attendance for a single service is about 700. The tabernacle is located on Vogan street, just off East Washington street, and with the large windows opened on all sides, it is unusually cool and comfortable.

Bill Northern Wins Laurels For Southern Drawl

(International News Service)
RANDOLPH FIELD, July 3.—He's a Nashville, Tenn. boy, only 21, but he's getting along.

He's a Flying Cadet, one of nearly 900, receiving basic flight training at Randolph Field, Texas, the nation's giant "West Point of the Air." This pilot-to-be, former trackman and wrestler for Vanderbilt university, has gained a "championship" which possibly should have gone to Bill Southern, his Cadet chum from Ellinwood, Kans. The title is for having the most southern drawl at the training school.

However, Southern did not have a chance of winning out in southern talk when up to the microphone stepped this lad in question, of all persons, Bill Northern.

The Days Ahead

TELEPHONE SERVICE is playing a vital part in speeding the production of defense materials in these critical times.

And in the days ahead—should events make it necessary—the telephone communications network will play an even greater part in the defense of the state and nation.

The Pennsylvania Bell organization is 18,500 people operating an up-to-the-minute telephone plant—a plant conceived in the famed Bell Telephone Laboratories and born in the great Western Electric factories.

It was engineered to carry the normal communications needs of our state, with extra "margins" to care for peace-time emergencies and to provide for normal growth. But now the telephone service faces a mighty challenge—the challenge of the communications needs of the all-out drive to build up the defenses of the nation—to rearm America.

To meet that challenge—

By the end of this year, more than forty millions of dollars of new Bell telephone plant will have been constructed in Pennsylvania in 24 months. And next year and the year after, the program of new buildings, new central office equipment, new switching mechanisms, new local telephone cables, new inter-city telephone lines, will go on at an ever-increasing tempo.

THE communications requirements of army camps, arsenals, shipyards, the thousands of defense industries and of other essential activities—these growing telephone needs must be met.

If it becomes necessary in order to fulfill these requirements—so important to all of us—we will not hesitate to ask that non-defense requests for new telephone service be held up temporarily. At peak hours it may not always be possible on all routes to give the customary extremely high speed "no hang up" inter-city service.

But the people of Pennsylvania can rest assured that the organization which created the best telephone service in the world will spare neither time nor men nor money nor materials to continue that service quality—and at the same time to build for the emergency. That we guarantee.

Some Suggestions

Here are some means by which the telephone user can contribute to the efficiency of the telephone service. By following these suggestions you will help to conserve essential telephone equipment.

1. Don't trust to memory or to old lists for telephone numbers. Wrong numbers are wasteful—and an annoyance to both caller and called party.

2. Answer the telephone promptly.
3. When you make a call, give the called party enough time to answer before "hanging up."
4. Be sure to hang up after every call. Failure to do so means your line is "busy"—though it may be doing nothing!
5. If you are on a party line, try to avoid unnecessarily long conversations. Don't monopolize the line.

The telephone is a product of a free America. Those of us who have had a share in its development have a pride in this example of democracy in action. The Bell System is a typically American institution. It is owned by two-thirds of a million Americans. It is operated by a third of a million American telephone workers. It serves, either directly or through connecting telephone companies, the entire American nation.

DiMaggio Sets World Record

Yankee Star Homers In Fifth To Run String To 45 Straight Games

PIRATES DEFEAT CINCINNATI REDS

By PAT ROBINSON
(International News Service Staff Writer)
NEW YORK, July 3.—There should be little difficulty in selecting the winner of the most valuable player award in the American league this year.

Day by day Joe DiMaggio is making the task of the selecting committee very easy, and barring accidents, he should be a shoo-in for the award.

Joe gave the selecting committee a little more help yesterday when he became the first player in either major league to get 100 hits and that 100th hit of Joe's was his 18th homer which tops his league and it also wrote his name into the record books for that marked the 45th straight game in which he has hit safely for an all-time major league record.

Fans Go Wild
Of course, Joe is pleased with that record but he will be more pleased if he can fulfill his ambition to lead the league in runs scored, runs batted in, hits, total bases and homers.

And there was a wild ovation when Joe parked one in the left field bleachers on his next trip to the plate. That blow finished New York and the Yankees went on to score an 8-4 decision and moved three games up on the idle Indians.

The Mackmen played the only other daylight game in the league and won it in 10 hits, 7 to 6. They tied the Senators with a three-run blast in the ninth and won out the next inning on Bob Johnson's homer.

Over in the National, the Dodgers moved up within half a game of the idle Cardinals by hammering out a 9-3 decision over the Phils, who still look like a team that may consider itself lucky to win 45 games this year.

The Pirates routed Paul Derringer and the Reds, 8-3, and the Giants and Braves split a pair—the Braves taking the opener, 5-4, behind the four-hit pitching of Erickson and Earley and the Giants the nightcap, 6-0, behind the four-hit throwing of Bill Lohman.

In the night game, Buck Newsom let the Chicago White Sox down with three hits, but a 1-0 victory for the Detroit Tigers.

Training Class Will Have Supper

This evening a party of 17 from the Pennsylvania State College Engineering Drawing II defense training class, will have a spaghetti supper at a suburban dining room.

The event will be held in honor of the instructor, Robert S. Miles, and marks the graduation of the entire class. Following the supper, speeches will be heard, and an entertaining program will be presented.

Chairman for the dinner is Emilio J. Tomasello.

Bessemer Plays Ellwood Friday

Game At Bessemer Fourth Of July Will Decide First-Half Championship

The first half championship in the Lawrence county league will be at stake in the big Fourth of July holiday game at Bessemer on Friday afternoon. The Bessemer team battles Ellwood City Socials in a postponed Lawrence county league game at 3 o'clock eastern standard time. The game is part of a big planned celebration at Bessemer.

The Bessemer team can tie the first half championship with a victory, while the Ellwoodians can become first half winners with a victory, providing they defeat the Hillsville team in a postponed game at Hillsville tonight.

Stanley vs Greco

Manager Jim Martin of Bessemer, today announced that he would probably pitch "Steamer" Stanley, with Ellwood probably picking on Greco, who has beaten the Cement Towers a few times this year, being quite effective against the terrific slugging Bessemer gang. Greco is another Ellwood City pitching possibility.

The game will no doubt draw the biggest crowd of the season to the Bessemer field, the fans have been waiting for this fine attraction for a long time. Ellwood has won 10 and lost three and Bessemer has won nine and lost four.

Manager Martin also announced that on this coming Sunday Bessemer will be host to the Wampum team in a second half battle.

Golfers Will Be Active On Fourth

All Three New Castle Golf Courses Will No Doubt Draw Crowds

All three of New Castle's fine golf courses will be packed with golfers on Friday (Fourth of July), providing the weatherman does not act up and bring showers.

At the New Castle Field club Angelo "Dike" Monsey, pro, announces that in the morning there will be the following program: Individual sweepstakes, 3-4 handicap event, a best-ball two-ball foursome with combined handicap, a best-ball four-ball 1-4 combined handicap and in the afternoon a mixed foursome tourney.

The Castle Hills course is planning a lot of special events for the day, too, it was announced today by Manager Larry Gramling. There will be something doing every minute for the golfing fraternity.

Sylvan Heights will also celebrate the day with a few special events that will be attractive to the golfers.

Elders Schedule West Pittsburgh

The Elder A. C. fighting hard for the pennant in the first half of the city baseball league, will go to the West Pittsburgh field on Sunday for a postponed game with the "Gas House" gang. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Manager Joe O'Leary will probably use Fuller on the hill and Manager Danny DeGueve will use either Lefty Tonette or Braky, with Lazar and Mike Marky also available for mound duty.

The Red Sox have signed several promising college stars, including Bernie Keating, who won 22 of 28 pitching for Dickinson.

Wife Of Joe Louis Is Seeking Divorce

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, July 3.—Marva Trotter Louis insisted today that she had been struck down by the heavy-weight champion of the world, as she stated in her divorce petition, but she indicated the real reason for their marital breakup was that "Joe just got tired of being married."

"It was grand to be the wife of the champ," she said at her luxurious apartment in the six-apartment building which Louis gave her. But he has neglected me. He has not been in this apartment for six or seven months. I guess Joe just got tired of being married.

"Joe never asked me to come to live with him in Detroit (his home). It was just taken for granted I'd live here. If he had ever wanted me to give up living here and move to Detroit, I would have taken the first train there."

Struck Her Twice
Asked about those blows which the divorce petition filed yesterday stated the champion landed on her, Mrs. Louis insisted:

"He struck me twice. I'm not telling why now, but when the proper time comes I will tell the judge just what happened and also how it feels to be hit by the champion of the world."

Reports circulated that Mrs. Louis would seek a settlement of anywhere up to $250,000 from the champion, whose fortune she believes is now approaching $1,000,000. Asked about these reports, William H. Temple, Joe's Chicago attorney, said:

"If some settlement that is agreeable to both parties can be reached, the divorce suit can be heard shortly. However, nothing yet appears."

Denise Joe Struck Her

Temple also issued a denial that Joe had ever struck Mrs. Louis.

"The champion is a fine, decent husband, not the man he has been painted to be," he said.

Mrs. Louis said she bears no malice and hopes Joe remains champion for a long time, but declared there is no chance for reconciliation as long as Joe is "too busy to hang around home," as he used to say.

"I like to have my husband to myself once in a while," she declared. "But Joe is too busy defending his title, playing in golf tourna-

State Has Galaxy Of Sports Stars

Penn State Produces Standout Stars; Five On All-American Teams

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., July 3.—Never before in the history of Penn State athletics has any year produced a greater galaxy of sports stars than did the 1940-41 seasons.

Five Nittany Lion athletes were named on All-American teams. Led by Barney Ewell, Penn State's sprint star who was named in three events on the N. C. A. A. team, the Lion athletes compiled sterling records.

In addition to setting a new Penn State scoring mark in basketball, Capt. Johnny Barr received All-American recognition. Capt. Leon Gajewski was chosen All-American center on three football squads, and crack marksmen Ben Stahl and Gilbert Gault were named on the national collegiate rifle team.

Boxing King

Paul Scally won the N. C. A. A. 175-pound boxing crown and Bob Baird was runner-up at 145 pounds. Sophomore Charlie Ridenour captured the Eastern Intercollegiate wrestling title in the 121-pound class and Capt. Frank Gleason, 136 pounder, placed third in the national collegiate matches. Roman Pico won the National A. A. U. rope climb, and Walt Hosterman and Woody King were named on the All-Eastern soccer team.

During 1940-41 the varsity and freshman teams competed in 221 contests winning 144, losing 73, and tying four, to record a 651 winning percentage. The soccer and indoor track teams finished their seasons undefeated, while eight freshman teams compiled perfect records.

Zivic Wins By Technical Kayo

Welterweight Champion Gives Al (Bummy) Davis Terrific Lacing

By JACK MAHON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 3.—The slight case of open-air murder welterweight Champion Fritz Zivic committed upon the person of Pvt. Al (Bummy) Davis at the Polo Grounds last night will probably cause the private to call a truce and retire to his quarters of Uncle Sam's army.

Johnny Attell, Davis' manager, revealed that the Trainer Ray Arce put the pieces of Bummy together in the dressing room after a one-sided massacre in which Zivic hacked his way to a technical kayo in 1:12 of the tenth round when the former street-corner slugger turned soldier.

Zivic Too Good.

"If I had my way, Davis would fight again until he is out of the army," said Johnny. "He hadn't a fight since last November and I don't know when he can get out again so I'd like him to wait till his enlistment is up before fighting again."

Davis said he would like to continue fighting but added "that's up to the army."

The fight was nothing of the sort. It was an exhibition of a sharp, clever veteran boxer and a preliminary boy with a single weapon—a lethal left hook.

Potters Defeat Moose Golfers To Win League Honors

Shenango Pottery Team Cops First Half Title In Sylvan Heights League

Shenango Pottery golfers had a field day at the expense of the second place Moose team in the Sylvan Heights League last evening at the city course, and won first half honors in handy fashion, defeating the New Castle Moose team by a score of 5½ to 1½.

Shelby Social, with a 4-2 victory over Universal Sanitary A.A. took second place, 4½ points behind the leaders. The Potters scored 38 out of a possible 54 points for the first half of the season, while the Shelby men from Ellwood City had 34. New Castle Moose had 31½ and A. and J., who lead the field up until three weeks ago, finished fourth with 31 points. The other six teams were fairly well bunched, but in the rear.

The second half schedule will start next Wednesday, and the first half winners will have to keep up a mad pace, as they will be the target of the nine other teams in the league.

In other matches played last evening, A. and J. won from Unions, 3½ to 2½; Workingmen's Social of Ellwood City split with Saegertown, 3-3; and Ellwood City Moose won from Duca D. Abruzzi, 4½ to 1½.

Elders Defeat Moose Club 2-1

Coen And Rodenbaugh Hookup In "Oldtimers" Pitching Battle At Marshall Field

Shades of the early twenties were reenacted at Marshall Field last night when Frank "Jewie" Coen and "Fiz" Rodenbaugh pitched for the Elders and Moose clubs respectively, hooked up in a hurling battle for a few innings with the former having the better of the argument, 2 to 1.

It was the 17th win for the Elders against two setbacks in the league to date, and puts them a step nearer the first-half flag. The game was an exhibition contest with the Moose using ineligible players.

Heavy hitting was done by Guinbaugh and Paul Coulter.

Coen relieved Withrow and exercised all of his old time mastery over the Moose, with an assortment of baffling curves and sinkers. The Moose had but five hits off of the combined Elder hurling staff of Withrow, Coen and Gunnitt.

Burgess Appeals For Fourth Safety

Warns Of Dangers In Traffic And Celebration Of National Holiday

ELLWOOD CITY, July 3.—Four hundred and seventy-five persons will set out to celebrate the Fourth of July this year—and they won't come back.

They won't come back because, ironically, they are celebrating a day dedicated to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Some of them will start across the street—never to reach the other side. Others will climb into their cars, step on the gas and ride to their death. Still others will lose life in a split-second of horror because someone else forgot to be careful.

None of these people will want to die. None of them will have a premonition of tragedy. Every one of them will think, "It won't happen to me." But it will happen to 475, the National Safety Council predicts.

Burgess William McGinley points out, however, that this gloomy forecast need not be fulfilled—that none of these people need die if every driver and every pedestrian makes up his mind to avoid an accident by using skill and caution.

The same caution the burgess said, will prevent the other common holiday tragedies—drownings, death and injury from fireworks, from over-exposure and over-exposure to sun.

The highways of our city and nation will carry the greatest traffic load over the holiday that they have ever borne. They will be jam-packed with throngs taking advantage of the three-day vacation.

The burgess' suggestion of four rules for the Fourth:

Don't use fireworks.
Take it easy on the road. Start in time. Don't speed or take chances in passing, especially on hills and curves.

Don't overdo in exercise, eating or in exposure to sun.
If you swim—Don't go in alone or when overheated. Wait for an hour after eating. Know the depth of the water. Don't show off or indulge in horseplay.

Let Ellwood City do its part in a national campaign for a happy and sane July 4th.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)
Copyright 1941 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

It would appear that army morale will be looked after much more effectively than it was in 1917. More power to the United Service Organization as it backs up the soldiers and keeps them satisfied. It seems to work out far better than in the World War, when debates dated with embarrassed, tongue-tied boys from the corn belt and thought they were hopping up the heroes.

There was the well-worn story, perhaps now forgotten, of the beautiful Junior Leaguer who asked the sailor boy if he cared to dance. "No, I'd rather pick my chicken," said the sailor.

We venture to run of this only because it is a bit old and tattered. But it does signify a yearning by the fighting forces to have fun in their own way, and the U. S. O., happily, understands this and proceeds accordingly. Thus we seem to be doing all right, so far as army and navy morale is concerned. But what about civilian morale? That will be tremendously important just now, as the bleachers flow down onto the field, in this new kind of war. This latter-day economic-military style of combat declares everybody in men, women and children, old people and cripples, and the victim of claustrophobia who never mixed in anything before.

It is a lot harder to pump up civilian morale than it is to keep the soldiers and sailors happy. Clergymen, commencement day orators, editors, writers, columnists and the like slog away about fervor and belief, and founding fathers, sacrifice and courage. That helps, of course, but good public morale is either there or it isn't, no matter what the organized efforts to fan it up.

Curiously enough, our traditional skepticism about well-meaning and idealistic tub-thumping is one of our great bulwarks of strength. Our unmatched scientific and technical resources are the fruits of the highly diversified, free-for-all of a nation of self-starters, instinctively resistant to mass-pressure or synthetic excitement.

Just to illustrate: Many years ago there was a school teacher monkeying around with a lot of queer odds and ends in the back room of Doc Robinson's store in Milford, O. He was young Charles F. Kettering, having a good time in his own way, with nobody paying any attention to him. But here's Mr. Kettering, the wizard of electro-mechanics, just about ready to spring a new airplane detector which might get us a decision or a knock-out in some future war, let's not assume that we've already got one.

This may seem like a strained allusion, vis-a-vis the above, but we feel that our personal morale would be upped a notch or two if we could hear Irene Franklin sing her "Red Head" song just once more. In fact, it was the sad news of the death of Miss Franklin the other day that started these meanderings.

The movies, steadily on the up-take, these are, never have been quite a substitute for old-time vaudeville. I have an idea that more of us had a chance to have a good time in our own way then, and that, I think, is the nub of this public morale business. Some of us liked the padded Dutchman; others the comic cop, the rube, the tramp,

Insurance Puzzle
Confronts CouncilCan't Collect Damages For Collision Of Fire Chiefs Car and Fire Truck

Insurance complications popped up again this morning during the bi-weekly meeting of City Council. This time it revolved about damages sought by the city as a result of the collision between the fire chiefs car and one of the fire trucks.

The two city-owned cars collided last May 29 and shortly afterward the city wrote the Travelers Insurance Co., the firm which carries policies on the cars.

Today City Solicitor Robert M. White forwarded to the solons a "self explanatory" letter from A. F. Lambing, Travelers official at Pittsburgh, which pointed out that the policy provides for liability insurance, not accident insurance.

"The Travelers executive wrote: 'Our investigation of the accident reported to us as having occurred May 29, 1941, involving an auto assigned to the fire chief and one of the fire trucks, discloses that both vehicles are owned by the City of New Castle.'

"As the policy of insurance which the city has with this company excludes payment of claims for damage to property owned by the named insured, we do not regard the claim for damages presented as a result of the above mentioned accident, as one for our attention."

City Solicitor White, in part, told council:

"The only way the city can recover from the insurance company is for it to suffer a judgment to be taken against it for the damage by one of its cars. In this case the damage done by one car was to another car of the city and the city cannot sue itself."

The most recent discovery of mahogany was on the upper reaches of the Amazon river and its tributaries, in western Brazil and eastern Peru. It has been on the market only about 20 years, and no one knows over what area it is to be found, as it comes from a vast area that has been little explored. This mahogany is of exceptionally fine quality.

The 17-year locust is about one inch long when full grown, and is marked with black and yellow.

Cascade Awaits
Holiday Throng

Cascade Park, the city's largest playground, expects one of its biggest Fourth of July crowds tomorrow.

Superintendent Chris C. Coulthard said all concessions would be operating, and that dancing will be in vogue from 9 until 12 at night. The park pool should prove the stellar daytime attraction if Old Sol keeps to his blistering work.

A colorful fireworks display late in the evening is expected to bring a mammoth traffic problem, but officials are preparing to cope with it.

Fourth Of July Is Independence Day With New Meaning

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright—1941—Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.)
BABSON PARK, Mass., July 3.—Fast-moving events have led up to this year's crucial Independence Day and have made it a new landmark in our national history. Behind the headlines of battles won and lost, the War itself at the moment looms as a rough balance between Axis land power and British sea power. Into these wavering scales, America is beginning to cast her industrial power. How soon? On the answers to these questions may depend our own independence, and the independence of the rest of the world. July 4th, 1941, is the most epochal July 4th since 1776.

Question Mark Of Defense
Congress is making the necessary appropriations without stint. The daily grist of corporation news tells of new plants erected and old facilities expanded. Some of this extra capacity is being constructed with government assistance, but much is being financed by the manufacturers themselves. No reader needs to be told of the progressive mobilization of manufacturing facilities. Few are the neighborhoods throughout the land which cannot bear personal witness to the expansion of our armed forces.

As the situation now stands, a critical factor in our defense effort is our labor force. No question arises of the patriotism, loyalty, and co-operation of the rank and file of workers. Public opinion, together with the workers and their responsible leaders, has rallied squarely behind the administration in resolute determination that no group shall be allowed to disrupt our progress. Our chief concern is not the noisy strike. We now know how to deal with such a threat. Today's enemies of America ican independence are the labor racketeers and the Communist leaders.

Labor's True Independence

From then comes the short-sighted opposition to improved mechanical equipment that would raise the productivity of labor. Where a house has been painted by spray-gun, they demand that it be repainted by brush. If contractors dare to accept pipe that has been threaded by machinery, they insist that it be cut off and re-threaded by hand. They fight prefabrication, which could cut building costs sharply. As a result, the volume of building is lessened and workers are saddled with higher rentals. I am confident that American workmen, as from dictatorship of that type.

Small business concerns, I know, crave independence from tyranny and exploitation by labor racketeers and others. Such raiding often is a body blow to the large organization, but to the little fellow it may be a death sentence. I have in mind those compelled to pay needless employees who act merely as spectators on the job, or those forced to abandon processes where cost could be cut and quality improved by their adoption. Some business concerns have been caught and crushed in conflicts between rival unions. The policy of our defense program is to decentralize and spread production among many sub-contractors of medium or small size. Efficiency of such concerns will increase if they can be given their independence from the commands of ruthless labor dictators.

Must Public Pay?

American independence is not complete if an American worker, in order to get a job, must pay tribute sometimes running into four figures. Nor is our independence complete if consumers who want to buy milk in stores or in larger quantities are refused this opportunity. We all suffer from the un-American practice of blockading the products of one state from entering the borders of another. The public backs defense ungrudgingly. What seems intolerable is that in the midst of these heavy burdens we should bear the continued load of exploitation. The American consumer, if necessary, will stand a gasless Sunday if only he can be assured of a racketless Monday!

Believing in the intelligence and integrity of the overwhelming majority of the members of American labor unions, I recommend one way of ousting the predatory type of official. Set up and maintain the necessary measures to assure genuine elections of officials. In other words, be sure that democracy is installed in all our unions. If purity is essential when workers vote in industrial plants, it is even more important when they vote in their unions. Overthrow of racketeering and Communism would both speed up defense and improve general business prospects.

Unparalleled Activity

Two elements in this business outlook emerge like mountain tops. In the first place, substitution is proceeding apace, with discussion of replacements for steel, tungsten, tin, natural rubber, and other commodities where supplies are in question. Necessity will compel charge-over in products, jobs, markets, supplies, transportation, and other departments. In the second place, prepare for record-breaking production. I look for output far surpassing the peaks of our World War I and the highs of the post-war boom. Freed from the grasp of unprincipled union leaders, all able-bodied and right-minded workers should be employed at good wages and legitimate employers should secure a fair profit.

Although battles are decided by military powers, wars are decided by spiritual powers. The democracies are looking to America for munitions. Equally vital is our contribution of intangibles; that is, unity of purpose, singleness of effort, and a demonstration of 100% democracy. This Fourth of July is the day of days to re-affirm American independence in whatever quarter it is menaced, whether by aggression from without or by exploitation from within.

Graham Seeks To Have Congress Pass Wire Tapping Bill

District Congressman Makes Vigorous Plea To Congress For Legislation

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
(Special Washington Correspondent, New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 3.—Representative Louis E. Graham of Beaver was among those members of the House of Representatives who unsuccessfully fought for passage of legislation this week authorizing the F. B. I. to tap telephone and telegraph wires in its crime control activities.

The bill was rejected by a 154 to 146 ballot after Congressman Graham entered debate and eloquently pleaded for its passage. It was the first controversial floor fight into which the Beaver congressman had projected himself since coming to Washington three years ago. He reminded his colleagues of this fact and declared he was supporting the wire tapping bill only because his experience as United States attorney had convinced him it was highly desirable legislation.

"I hold in my hand," Congressman Graham told the House, "a record of the proceedings where the sub-regional director of the C. I. O. in my district wrote me that 25,000 men in my district were opposed to this bill, and asked me to vote against it. His reasons are set forth in the hearings, but I told him that the interests of the whole American people rose over and above any subordinate group in this nation."

Declaring that the United States has become "a spy-infested country," Congressman Graham insisted that "the officer who executes the law needs every mechanical device and resource."

L. B. Round Announces Action Taken Before Securities Commission

L. B. Round, vice president and general manager of Pennsylvania Power company, announced today that in accordance with the statement of Justin R. Whiting, president of the Commonwealth & Southern Corporation, made to stockholders at their annual meeting, the Commonwealth & Southern Corporation this day filed with the Securities & Exchange Commission supplemental answer in proceedings pending before the commission. This answer carried with it a proposed plan for the liquidation and retirement of that company's $6 cumulative preferred stock by distributing thru an offer to all preferred shareholders the common stock of Pennsylvania Power company, Consumers Light company, Central Illinois Light company, Southern Indiana Gas & Electric company and Ohio Edison company.

The plan as filed proposes that the Commonwealth Mutual Service company will be so reorganized as to the result in the northern companies owning their own mutual service company which will be staffed from the present personnel of Commonwealth Southern (New York). Upon completion of such reorganization the new mutual service company will have no connection with either the Commonwealth & Southern of Delaware or the Commonwealth & Southern of New York.

Mr. Round made it clear that the plan is subject to such amendment as may be found necessary in the course of the proceeding before the Securities & Exchange Commission whose approval is required before the matter may be submitted to stockholders.

List Improvements For Boy Scout Camp

Nature Hut And Modern Shower Baths Among New Features At Site

Numerous changes and improvements are being made at the Lawrence County Boy Scout camp, preparatory to opening the season on Monday, July 7.

First change made at the camp was in the name. This change was suggested by those who love the camp, who see it in an ideal place for scouts, rather than a memorial to a man whose love for the boys and the great out-of-doors suggested himself that the change be made.

Among the other improvements and new things will be the nature hut, 16 by 20 feet in size—large enough to hold all the things made and gathered at camp—it will be the show place of the camp. The hut had been constructed on a new site and will be visible from all parts of the camp.

Another new feature will be the shower bath. This will undoubtedly be much in demand by the boys on a hot day after a long hike or a fast ball game. A new pump is being installed to pump water from the creek to a tank, big enough to hold plenty of water for all. The tank will be located close to the cabins.

Other improvements are being made to the cabins, the water front and to the general camp site. Members of the camp committee believe that the camp will be in the best condition this year that it has ever been in.

There is still room for a few more scouts during the camping season, but reservations are going fast and anyone desiring to attend camp had better telephone the Boy Scout office, No. 5477 immediately.

Commercial chalk today is made mostly of gypsum, but it originally came from chalk deposits, which were composed of tiny shells known as "foraminifera".
